Prospectus 2022/23

OUR STORY

Founded in 2010, Portal is a dynamic and innovative bilingual training provider. We support organisations with their learning and development strategies to enhance the capacity of their workforce.

Delivering qualifications at levels 2 to 7, we are experienced in supporting the professional development of a wide range of roles, from those new to their positions through to experienced senior leaders. There are over 500 individuals currently accessing and engaged with our programmes.

Portal prides itself on providing tailored support to all our learners and, where relevant with organisations, ensuring solid, constructive relationships with all employers. We listen to the needs of the individuals and their organisation to provide qualifications which will allow both to grow together happily. If we feel that we are not best placed to help, then we'll be honest in stating so and try to find alternatives. Being honest and having integrity whilst enjoying our work is very much at the heart of all we do.

Portal's short courses cover a range of topics and are available via our website, accessible 24/7, and an opportunity to embark on guided but self-directed learning and study.

Short courses can be completed independently or can be grouped together to form a bespoke CPD package.

Examples of themes from some of our short courses:

Self-Awareness and Personal Effectiveness

For personal and professional effectiveness it is important to be self-aware, to identify own strengths and challenge weaknesses to improve performance. The courses in this section offer insight into the different aspects of self-awareness to promote a rounded understanding of own behaviours and preferences.

Working With Others

Effective relationships lead to a happier and more productive workplace. The courses in this section will offer opportunities to develop skills to engage with others more successfully.

Communication

Clear communication is an essential skill required in business to achieve organisational objectives, mutual understanding, direction and purpose. These courses focus on areas to enhance personal effectiveness in communication.

ACCREDITED SHORT COURSES

For some of our short courses there are options to receive accreditation from recognised awarding organisation such as ILM or City and Guilds however all courses will be recognised by a Portal Certificate of attendance.

The benefits of non-accredited programmes, is that they provide CPD opportunities for you to develop your skills and knowledge without the requirements of formal levelling or assessment. Non-accredited programmes are recognised by a Portal Training certificate of achievement. There are numerous courses and topic areas available which can be layered to create a bespoke package.

Coaching Skills

This short course provides an insight into coaching skills in the workplace. What skills and techniques can we draw on from coaching and mentoring professionals that will improve our working relationships and effectiveness in the workplace?

Influencing Skills

Productive working relationships lead to a more productive workplace and this course examines how to become a better influencer looking at different styles of influencing and practical steps that can be taken to influence others at all levels in the organisation.

Time Management

This course is centred around principles of effective working and raises self-awareness and effectiveness in own time management to achieve goals in the workplace. You will learn time management tools and techniques to work smarter and increase productivity.

Building Confidence For Challenging Conversations

Difficult workplace conversations are inevitable and this course is for those who would like to develop their confidence in these situations. It explores the nature of 'difficult conversations' and provides practical tools and tips for managing these.

Building Rapport and Collaboration

Effective relationships lead to a happier and more productive workplace and this course explores the importance of rapport, negotiation and influencing skills in creating harmonious working relationships.

Understanding Emotional Intelligence

Good emotional intelligence improves communication, self-awareness and working relationships. This course introduces EI and explores one of the seminal models of EI theory against which learners will be challenged to identify how they will improve their personal effectiveness.

CV Writing

This course examines the 'do's and don'ts' of CV writing and provides structured guidance, examples and insight into the components of an effective CV.

An Introduction to Managing your own Professional Development

For personal and professional effectiveness, it is important to be self-aware. This course encourages learners to critically review their own skills, knowledge and behaviours and identify own strengths and weaknesses. It provides the opportunity and structure to plan to improve performance.

Understanding your Beliefs, Attitudes and Values

This course offers the opportunity for introspection and raises self-awareness to examine how beliefs, attitudes and values impact own and others behaviour.

Conscious and Unconscious Bias

Everyone holds unconscious bias and the aim of this course is to challenge learners to raise awareness of these, and consider how these have the potential to impact their behaviours, decisions and performance.

Confidence and Assertiveness

This course is for those who would like to develop their confidence and assertiveness in the workplace. It explores different contexts and offers practical tools to develop individuals to communicate and deal with a range of situations more effectively.

Resilience

The course offers the opportunity to understand resilience as a concept and provides tools, techniques and approaches that can be practiced to develop and sustain own levels of personal resilience.

Presentation Skills

This course examines the 'do's and don'ts' of presenting and provides structured guidance and insight into the components of successful presentations.

Feedback

This course explores the importance of feedback, why it is important for individual and organisation development and some practical tools and approaches to giving constructive feedback to a range of stakeholders - staff, colleagues and managers.

This is not an exhaustive list of programmes, so if you are looking for something more bespoke, a combination of short courses or something more specific, then we can tailor the themes above to address your organisation or individual requirements. If you would like to discuss how we can customise a programme for you please contact us.

Situational Leadership

There is no 'one best way' in leadership and this course explores seminal leadership theory identifying models of situational leadership and encouraging learners to examine these in relation to their own practice in order to improve their and other's performance.

Understanding Personality Types

This course examines the different personality types and assesses learner's own personality type to raise awareness of how their own preferences impact their behaviours and that of others.

Communication and Interpersonal Skills

Clear communication is an essential business skill to achieve organisational objectives, mutual understanding, direction and purpose. This course focuses on the scope of communication and interpersonal skills and challenges learners to identify areas to enhance their personal effectiveness in communication.

BESPOKE

Bespoke courses at Portal are designed in collaboration with the sponsoring organisation/individual and it is important to us that we really get to know who we are working with in order that the partnerships are productive and effective. Bespoke packages are written to meet the specific learning and development needs of the organisation and the breadth of options for bespoke courses is wide. We discuss the topic, content, mode of delivery, duration of delivery and accreditation options during the initial meetings with Portal's Professional Development Consultant.
